International Program for Development Evaluation Training (IPDET)

Description

Tweet

Date: June 8 â?? July 3
Venue: Carleton University in Ottawa Canada

On-line applications are now being accepted for IPDET 2009 (June 8 â?? July 3) at www.ipdet.org.

It is time to apply for one to four weeks at the International Program for Development Evaluation Training (IPDET). Now entering its 9th year, the program will be held from June 8th through July 3rd at Carleton University in Ottawa Canada. Weeks 1 and 2 are a graduate-level intensive applied core course on development evaluation. Weeks 3 and 4 feature a choice of 30 workshops which go in-depth on specific development evaluation topics. New this year are workshops on evaluating governance and using the theory of change model for evaluating environmental and social impacts. Visit the website for more information about the new workshops and instructors, as well as returning ones. Note that you must register on the IPDET website www.ipdet.org before you can log in and access the on-line application form. If you experience difficulties with the application process, contact Mary Dixon, the IPDET Registrar, at mary_dixon@carleton.ca. IPDET is a collaboration of the Independent Evaluation Group of the World Bank and Carleton University with the support of several donor organizations.

Category

1. Training
2. Types of Events

Date
11/11/2026
Date Created
09/05/2009
Author
admin