INTRAC workshop: Accountability without Impact?

Description

Tweet

Date: Date: 23 November 2010
Venue: Venue: St Anneâ??s College, Oxford, UK

There are many debates about the â??So what?â?? question, in terms of concerns about the actual impact of international cooperation. What is the development sector actually achieving in terms of improving the lives of the poor? Have we focused on proving accountability without truly pursuing ways to assess impact? What can we do about this?

This workshop will draw on practitioner experiences to assess the state of the current debate, asking where we are now; explore forward-thinking case studies; and facilitate productive discussion and debate about where we want to be, and how to move towards that. The workshop will be attended by senior I*NGO* managers and policy makers, from Europe.
