

Against Transparency: The perils of openness in government.

Description

Being a keen advocate of greater transparency by aid agencies and programmes this article interested me.

Tweet

See it on the New Republic website, published on October 9, 2009

The author, Lawrence Lessig, “is professor of law and director of the Edmond J. Safra Center for Ethics at Harvard Law School, and the author most recently of Remix: Making Art and Commerce Thrive in the Hybrid Economy (Penguin). He is on the advisory board of the Sunlight Foundation and on the board of Maplight.org“

Category

1. Uncategorized

Tags

1. transparency

Date

21/11/2024

Date Created

11/11/2009

Author

admin