Making Evaluations Matter: a Practical Guide for Evaluators.

Description

Tweet

Authors: Cecile Kusters with Simone van Vugt, Seerp Wigboldus, Bob Williams and Jim Woodhill. 2011

â??Too often evaluations are shelved, with very little being done to bring about change within organisations that requested the evaluation in the first place. This guide will explain how you can make your evaluations more useful. It will help you to better understand some conceptual issues and appreciate how evaluations can contribute to changing mindsets and empowering stakeholders. On a practical level, it presents core guiding principles and pointers on how to design and facilitate evaluations that matter. Furthermore, it shows you how you can get your primary intended users and other key stakeholders to contribute effectively to the evaluation process. This guide is primarily for evaluators working in the international development sector. However, if you are a commissioner of an evaluation, an evaluation manager or a monitoring and evaluation officer, you too will find it usefulâ?•.

The book can now be found here as a PDF version, http://www.cdi.wur.nl/UK/resources/Publications/

Tags

1. design
2. facilitation
3. New books
4. utilisation

Date
16/10/2026
Date Created
23/03/2011
Author
admin